171 proceedings. Such motion may be opposed by the Attorney General. The Family Court may consider such a motion and, in 172 its discretion, may stay the juvenile delinquency proceeding indefinitely. Upon such motion, the Department of Services
173 for Children, Youth and Their Families and/or the Family Court may identify and order available specialized services for
174 the minor that, in the opinion of the Department of Services for Children, Youth and Their Families or Family Court, are 175 best suited to the needs of the juvenile. So long as the minor substantially complies with the requirement of services
176 identified by the Department of Services for Children, Youth and Their Families and/or ordered by the Family Court, the 177 Attorney General shall, upon motion, nolle prosequi the stayed charges no earlier than 1 year after the stay was imposed.
178 Upon motion of the Attorney General that the minor has not substantially complied with the requirement of services
179 identified by the Department of Services for Children, Youth and Their Families and/or ordered by the Family Court, the 180 Family Court shall lift the stay for further proceedings in accordance with the regular course of such proceedings.

188 costs, including reasonable fees for expert witnesses.

189 (3) An action under this subsection must be commenced not later than 5 years after the later of the date on which 190 the victim:

191 a. was freed from the human trafficking situation; or 192 b. attained 18 years of age.

193 (4) Damages awarded to the victim under this subsection for an item must be offset by any restitution
194 paid to the victim pursuant to subsection (d) for the same item.

195 (5) This subsection does not preclude any other remedy available to the victim under federal law or law of this 196 state other than this section.

197 (j) Application for pardon and petition to expunge; motion to vacate conviction and expunge record.

198 (1) Notwithstanding any provision of Title 11, Chapter 43 or any other law to the contrary, a person convicted of

208 the person ceases to be a victim of trafficking in persons; and

209 d. Describe the evidence and provide copies of any official documents showing that the person is entitled 210 to relief under this paragraph.

211 If the motion satisfies the foregoing requirements, the court shall hold a hearing on a motion, provided
212 that the court may dismiss a motion without a hearing if the court finds that the motion fails to assert grounds on 213 which relief may be granted. Official documentation of the person's status as a victim of this section, "trafficking 214 in persons," or "a severe form of trafficking" from a federal, state, or local government agency shall create a
215 presumption that the person's participation in the offense of prostitution, loitering or obscenity was a direct result
216 of having been a victim of human trafficking, but shall not be required for the court to grant a petition under this 217 paragraph. If the petitioner can show to the satisfaction of the court that he or she is entitled to relief in a
218 proceeding under this paragraph, the court shall grant the motion and, pursuant to this paragraph, enter an order
219 vacating the judgment of conviction and dismissing the accusatory pleading, and may take such additional action
220 as is appropriate in the circumstances or as justice requires.

221 (3) Notwithstanding any provision of Title 11, Chapter 43 or any other law to the contrary, any person filing a
222 motion under paragraph (j)(2) in Superior Court or Family Court may also seek in that motion expungement of the criminal 223 record related to such conviction. If the court grants the motion to vacate the conviction under paragraph (j)(2) and the 224 movant also requested expungement, the court's order shall require expungement of the police and court records relating to 225 the charge and conviction. Such order shall contain a statement that the expungement is ordered pursuant to this paragraph 226 and, notwithstanding any limitations to the contrary, that the provisions of 11 Del. C. §§ 4374(f), 4376 and 4377 apply to 227 such order.

(4) Notwithstanding any provision of Title 11, Chapter 43 or any other law to the contrary, any person filing in Court of Common Pleas a motion under paragraph (j)(2) may, upon the Court of Common Pleas' entry of an order granting the motion to vacate, file a petition in the Superior Court seeking expungement of the criminal record related to such conviction and attaching to the petition a certified copy of the Court of Common Pleas' order granting the motion to vacate. Upon finding that the Court of Common Pleas entered an order under paragraph (j)(2), the Superior Court shall enter an order requiring expungement of the police and court records relating to the charge and conviction. Such order shall contain a statement that the expungement is ordered pursuant to this paragraph and, notwithstanding any limitations to the contrary, that the provisions of 11 Del. C. §§ 4374(f), 4376 and 4377 apply to such order.

SYNOPSIS

Human trafficking is a global concern that affects the United States on federal, state, and local levels, and victimizes more than 27 million people worldwide. By 2012, human trafficking had become the second fastest growing criminal activity in the United States, following drug trafficking. The Uniform Law Commission, in response to a July 2010 proposal from the American Bar Association (ABA) Center for Human Rights, began its work directed against human trafficking. The Uniform Act on Prevention of and Remedies for Human Trafficking (UAPRHT) received final approval at the ULC’s Annual Meeting in July 2013 and at the ABA’s House of Delegates in August 2013. This act, like the UAPRHT, presents the three-pronged approach that law enforcement and victims’ advocates consider essential.

Under the first prong, the act seeks to prevent and to penalize the criminal conduct—trafficking, forced labor, and sexual servitude—at the core of human trafficking. The act recognizes the forms of coercion that human traffickers use, including threats, force, debt bondage, abuse of the legal process, and use of a victim's disability/mental impairment. The bill also offers a comprehensive definition tied to the act's provisions on forced labor and sexual servitude. Sexual servitude gives rise to an enhanced penalty when a minor is made available or maintained for the purposes of commercial sexual activity. Also included is the requirement for persons convicted to pay restitution to the victim, while the Court shall order forfeiture of real or personal property used in or derived from human trafficking activities.

Under its second prong, the act provides essential protections for human trafficking victims. Consistent with Delaware's rape shield law, the act prohibits evidence of the alleged victim's past sexual behavior. The bill also outlines special provisions for minors, including a diversion alternative for minors who are human trafficking victims and commit prostitution or nonviolent offenses directly resulting from being a victim, and classifies such minors as neglected or abused children under the Delaware Code. Further, all victims may seek applications for pardon and may move to vacate a conviction of and expunge charges for prostitution or other non-violent offenses that directly resulted from being a human-trafficking victim. Victims are also allowed to bring civil action against their traffickers under this bill.

Under its third prong, the act promotes partnerships in the fight against human trafficking, elevates public awareness, and fosters development of coordinated victim services. A permanent human-trafficking council is created to develop a systematic plan to assist victims, collect human trafficking data, and promote awareness. Public awareness signs and the national human trafficking hotline number are to be posted in locations where victims of human-trafficking are often found. The act ensures that human-trafficking victims have access to benefits and services. The act states that law enforcement officers shall provide visa information to persons reasonably believed to be human-trafficking victims. Finally, the act amends other related statutes as necessary to accomplish the purposes of the act.
