Raising the Threshold

Across Delaware, providers, clinicians, advocates, and more have long been doing the hard, essential work of supporting youth impacted by trafficking.

Raising the Threshold builds on that work, offering a free training series designed to strengthen trauma-informed, survivor-centered practice across the systems that serve affected youth. Thanks to the generous support of the OVC, this series is offered at no cost to attendees. Registration for individual workgroups opens on a rolling basis.

Fall 2026 Training Series

Who's it for?

Designed for service providers ranging from clinicians, advocates, case managers, healthcare professionals, and more who work directly with youth survivors of trafficking.

No prior specialization required.

Cost

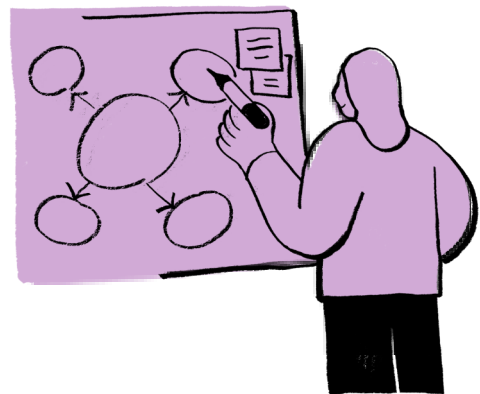

Free to attend, thanks to the generous support of the Office for Victims of Crime (OVC).

What to expect

Workgroups run August 1st through October 31st

Each workgroup is a standalone session - virtual or in-person - led by a different speaker, focused on a specific topic in trauma-informed, survivor-centered care for youth affected by trafficking. Sessions announced biweekly.

Attend all the sessions or the sessions most relevant to your discipline!

Registration

Each workgroup opens for registration individually as details are confirmed.

Registration opens on a rolling basis. Click here to register for the first session, join our listserv, or follow our socials to make sure you are receiving session information!

Stay Connected
